

Reception News

This week

It was lovely to see how enthusiastically the children came back to school this week and see how keen they were to share their holiday news. Some have attempted to write about what they did which is fantastic. Any writing they do in school is always celebrated but a "Writer of the day" will now be rewarded with the honour of wearing a special cape the following day.

This week we have a vet themed role play area and next week will begin our topic on "Goldilocks and the three bears". We have also started reading Ronald Dahl's "The giraffe and the pelly and me". This will encourage the children to listen for a sustained period of time and follow a story without pictures or props. In forest schools we made the most of the spring weather. We made grass seed heads and are looking forward to observing the changes that take place.

We have also introduced the children to a "morning write" which they will start on Monday. We will help and encourage them to do this as independently as possible and look forward to sharing their writing with you.

Next Week

Next week we are looking forward to our visitors from Warburtons when the children will get an opportunity to break bread. They will then try different breads as part of a scientific investigation. In phonics we are consolidating reading words with adjacent consonants and known graphemes. In maths we will be producing picture bar charts and considering position (1st, 2nd, 3rd).
